Storage Warehouse—221 st., near M.

There are other Furniture houses cheap, and other prices than those we quote, but there are no Furniture stores anywhere in the land that can equal the values we give at the prices we quote.

About that SPECIAL
SIDEBOARD SALE.
We've reduced prices throughout the stock so low as to seem almost ridiculous. And our reason, in which of course you're interested, is this:— The stock is too big for this time of year, and besides we want to make abundance of room for the immense fall variety that's coming. And so those that are here now go at prices a third to a half under what they were ten days ago. For instance:—

$18 Solid Oak Sideboards for $11.50.
$21 Solid Oak Sideboards for $13.75.
$24 Solid Oak Sideboards for $15.00.
$27 Solid Oak Sideboards for $16.25.
$30 Solid Oak Sideboards for $17.50.
$33 Solid Oak Sideboards for $18.75.
$36 Solid Oak Sideboards for $20.00.

WITH the first number of the Evening Times I announce a special sale of all solid Silverware, and particularly have I cut into the prices of belt buckles—shirt waist sets—silver knickknacks of every description.
Heart lockets—the popular fad—and solid silver toilet articles, such as silver-backed brushes and combs, powder puff boxes, share the general reduction.

I am making preparations to show a magnificent line of silver and gold ware with the opening of the Fall season.

I have a very excellent preparation for cleaning silverware, which is in use in many houses.

HEROISM UNDER TORTURE

Brave Cubans Stranded on an Isolated Florida Key.

MANY DIE FROM EXPOSURE

Some Are Allowed to Depart After Being Sworn to Secrecy, and the Others Rescued by a Relief Party From New York—Organized by General Roloff.

(Copyright by James Gordon Bennett.) New York, Aug. 5.—A Herald special from Tampa, Fla., says: The Cubans are evidently not mistaken when they boast of their ability to land expeditions from this country in Cuba in spite of the utmost vigilance of the United States and Spain combined. The expedition of Gen. Roloff was belated and stranded and almost starved for forty days on a small isolated key off the coast of Florida, though in sight of passing vessels. This expedition is said to have cost the revolutionary party more than $100,- 000. The cost, perils and hardships were greatly augmented by the failure of the steamer chartered to carry them to Cuba to find the particular key on which they were hiding and the necessity of securing another vessel. The story of this expedition is enough to excite universal sympathy for the exiles who are struggling so hard to return to their land in order to fight for their freedom.

About June 6 Maj. Gen. Roloff, with Brig. Gen. Sanchez, left Key West with about 200 men, nearly all veterans of the last war. They made their way in several small boats to a key previously agreed upon, where they were to be picked up by a steamer chartered by the junta in New York. They were joined on the steamer by Lieut. Col. Medina Rodriguez and a band of twenty-five picked veterans from San Domingo, who sailed from Porto Plata in mid-July. Day after day passed and the sentries watching for the long-looked-for steamer saw many vessels of all kinds pass up and down the coast, but none displayed the signal agreed upon nor ran in toward the key. Afraid to display signals for fear of halting the wrong vessel, they at last realized that their plans had miscarried. Their stock of provisions had run low, and they were obliged to supply their wants in some manner. This was a difficult matter and was not accomplished before they were reduced for days to starvation diet.

Exposed to the elements and fierce troups of sun on a sandy key, with almost no food and poor water, they suffered greatly and about thirty of them, from physical weakness, were forced to desert or die.
They were bound by strict oath and then allowed to sail for Tampa.

Gen. Roloff determined to save the expedition. He took a small boat and with a squad of sailors made a distant Florida port and went to New York. There he remained two weeks with the Cuban leaders, according another steamer and sailed on it in order to direct the captains to the right key.

The steamer picked up the party and instead of sailing directly to the north coast of Cuba, they circled the island, passing in almost hailing distance of several Spanish gunboats and under cover of a foggy night, landed the expedition off the coast of San Juan, near Las Tunas de Zaza, on July 27.

For two weeks Wyatt has been engaged in a running fight with officers. Last night he was driven from his hiding place in the Glass Mountain and brought to bay in a cornfield. The vigilantes surrounded him, but he managed to escape after he had been shot in the right side.

At daybreak the pursuit began again.
He was found again and asked to surrender. He refused and immediately began shooting. A dozen guns were fired at him, and he fell with a bullet in his hip and two in his thigh. He was taken to Honey-creek, where he lies in jail. The physicians say he has a fair chance of recovery.

Voluntary Advances in Wages.
Providence, R. I., Aug. 5.—The voluntary advance promised by the Woolen Manufacturers' Club, composed of the Providence, National, Saranac, and Manton mills at Olneyville, and the Farwell mills at Central Falls, the scene of the great strike, went into effect on light goods to-day.

The advance on the weaving schedule is about 7 1/2 per cent., although this rate varies in different mills, due to the fact that on low pick work the rate must be proportionally better to enable the weavers to get fair wages. This difference is all the weaving schedules.

A Relative of Charles Sumner.
Boston, Aug. 5.—James Sumner died last night at the old Sumner homestead, Milton. He was born in the homestead, May 28, 1831. His father was cousin to the famous sheriff of Suffolk County, distinguished as the father of Charles Sumner. In the South, just after the war, he held an official position in the department of internal revenue. After some years spent in the South, he returned to Massachusetts, and, studying the usual term in Harvard law school, was admitted to the bar in 1861. In 1865 he was nominated as the Greenback Governor of Massachusetts.

MAP OF THE WEATHER.

The WEATHER MAP here printed was prepared from observations in the United States and Canada, made at the same moment of time; that is, at Washington 8 a. m., Eastern time, and at San Francisco at 5 a. m., Pacific time. By this means we have here a bird's-eye view of the weather over the whole country. By examining map after map as they appear we can see the changes that have occurred, and can get some idea of the probable weather to follow. On the above map there is marked HIGH off the South Atlantic coast and North Pacific coast. These highs usually indicate clear weather; in winter, cool, but in summer cool only in the far east from, at their move toward the East. The clear skies at the center of the high in the summer permit intense insolation, and very often our hottest waves come just after the high has passed.

A LOW is marked in Minnesota. This indicates a disturbed region, with more or less rain. In the east part of the country, however, a bulk of the rain falls in the front of the LOW. By remembering these principles that HIGH and LOW move generally toward the East, we can calculate coming weather.

Forecast till 8 p. m. Tuesday: For New England and Eastern New York—Generally fair; southwesterly winds. For the District of Columbia, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia—Fair; slightly warmer in the interior; southwesterly winds.

We're Bound to Keep Busy

Making money when conditions are favorable—and satisfied to lose when necessity demands it. There's several good reasons for this one-third off sale. Rebuilding's one. Want of more room for the hats and furnishings is another. We don't think any one should neglect this offer.

Anything in this big store at an even third less than "marked-in-plain-figures"—"first-of-season" prices.
